

Online Bridesmaids Measurement Form

Name: _____

Phone Number: _____

Email: _____

Who is the Bride? _____

Measurements

Height
Weight
Bust
Waist
Hips

Any special notes or instructions? (describe body type, extra length maybe due to height, concerned about pregnancy, large bust area concern...anything that will assist in getting a better fit for your dress to help the consultant when discussing the size with you)

Measurements taken by a professional? Yes No

MEASURING GUIDE

We always recommend getting measured by a professional, but when that's not possible, use this guide to help you get the best measurements possible. Always use a soft measuring tape, and when possible, have someone else take the measurements for you. This is a two person job. The measurements should not be uncomfortably tight, but there should not be slack in the tape.

BUST: Measure around the fullest part of your bust. If you have a padded bra on, pull a little bit more snug.

WAIST: Measure around your natural waist. This will usually be the smallest point around your middle. When you bend sideways, this is the spot between your hip bone & ribs that bends in. This measurement should be nice & snug.

HIPS: Measure around the fullest part of your hips & bum. Make sure your pockets are empty!

- Your size is always determined by the largest measurement. It's always easier to order up & take a dress in!
- Ignore the numbers! Formal sizing is quite a bit different than regular clothing. Don't let a size that isn't your norm discourage you!